

Life has meaning,
value and purpose
BECAUSE of God

If there is no God, and no life beyond the grave, then life itself has no meaning, value or purpose

Meaning:

Without immortality our life has no ultimate significance and makes no difference to the world's outcome.

Without God there is no broader framework

Value:

Without immortality there is no accountability and choices become inconsequential.

Without God values are not perennial and are delusions created by selfish

Purpose:

Without immortality the only destination is extinction and death

Without God there is no purpose to life

Human life is unique and purposeful

Our Soul is immortal and what we do matters

Life's meaning, value and purpose are the result of evolution

Gods are figments of social imagination, created to control population or explain natural events. Science has replaced them.

Meaning:

Moral values are the product of social biological needs to improve the group and therefore aid to the self

Value:

We are the product of our genes, and they simply want to reproduce so we choose things that will improve our chances to reproduce. Social values are the product of this

Purpose:

We are the product of our genes, and they are selfishly interacting with the universe to increase themselves.

We do things that benefit us or our group and therefore us

We are the accidental product of non-directed evolution

There is nothing after death and gods don't exist anyway
